

Module 8

Analyzing the contents of my site, I decided to organize my items into folders separated by module. I named each folder “module_” (number of module goes where underscore is). Within each module folder I then placed the contents for each respective module. This organizational setup is most effective for me as I will be able to quickly find various files. By adding folders, I no longer have to scroll through a long list of files to find a certain portfolio piece. As we will continue to add modules to the course page, I feel that my organizational style will continue to be effective as files will be easy to locate even with additions of new module folders.
